

Amanda B. Agati

Practice Description

Ms. Agati specializes in the management of global trademark portfolios for clients primarily, but not exclusively, in the fashion and apparel, consumer goods, and luxury industries. She advises clients on worldwide branding strategies and protection and enforcement of intellectual property rights, including trademark clearance, registration, opposition and cancellation actions, licensing, policing, and anti-counterfeiting. Her practice also includes negotiating and drafting IP-related agreements such as licenses, assignments and coexistence agreements. During several secondments for leading luxury brands, Ms. Agati worked on intellectual property matters, commercial contracts, global data privacy, advertising, digital media and public relations issues, and advised clients on a wide range of legal issues.

While at Fordham Law, Ms. Agati interned for various leading fashion companies. Prior to joining Fross Zelnick, she was an associate in the intellectual property department of a New York City law firm.
