Overview

“I consider myself a counselor, not a litigator. My job is not to jump into litigation but to listen to my client, understand its concerns, and work with the client to find the best way of achieving its goals. When litigation can’t be avoided or if it is the best option, you pursue it. But the focus must not be on my title as a litigator – it must be on achieving the client’s ultimate goal and finding the best way to get there, taking the client’s business and financial interests into account. The best way often is not the most expensive or the most aggressive.”

Barbara A. Solomon works with iconic brands across diverse industries to protect and enforce their valuable IP assets. Her pragmatic and business-focused approach, coupled with a clear understanding of her clients’ business and their ultimate goal, is what keeps clients coming back – they appreciate her deft ability to achieve desired results through strategic negotiation. When litigation is necessary, clients know that Barbara has achieved many successes in trial and appellate courts across the country, in opposition and cancellation proceedings before the USPTO’s Trademark Trial and Appeal Board, and in UDRP cases.

With clients in industries ranging from luxury goods, beauty, and fashion to entertainment, consumer products, and financial services, Barbara has deep experience in issues relating to trademarks, trade dress, copyright, false advertising, unfair competition, rights of privacy, rights of publicity, parody, counterfeiting, and the internet. In addition to advising on searches for trademark clearance and registration, she also negotiates and drafts agreements, including co-existence agreements, assignments, distribution agreements, licenses, and representation agreements.

Representative Experience

Beyond the reported decisions listed above, Barbara has worked on the following matters:

Litigation

- MacDonald et al v. WGBH Educational Foundation, 1:18-cv-10773 (D. Mass.). Representing WGBH, PBS Distribution and The Taunton Press Inc. in a trademark infringement and preliminary injunction action over the title of a television series.
- Big Storm Brewery, LLC v. Due South Brewing Co. Inc., 8:16-cv-02405 (M.D. Fla.). Represented local brewery in declaratory judgment action concerning beer names.
- Tiffany Inc. v. eBay, Inc., 131 S. Ct. 647 (2010). Submitted amicus brief in support of Tiffany for its appeal to the Supreme Court seeking to hold eBay responsible for its alleged direct and contributory trademark infringement, trademark dilution, and false advertising since it facilitated and advertised counterfeit jewelry on its online market.
- Viacom Int'l Inc. v. Fanzine, Inc., 98 Civ. 7448 (S.D.N.Y. 2000). In a copyright case of first impression, the court held that Viacom's distribution of publicity materials featuring its television characters did not allow a recipient under the guise of media coverage or a fair use defense to commercially reproduce these materials as posters that were folded up to look like a magazine without the authorization of the copyright owner.
- MTV Networks, a division of Viacom International Inc. v. Adam Curry (S.D.N.Y. 1994). This was the first case ever filed alleging that a domain name infringed on a trademark and that sought to apply Lanham Act principals to the registration and use of a domain name.
